WACAUSTA, OR THE PROPRECY .- An cion Tale. By the author of Eenste - The life of the "children of the est has ever a remantic and touchmerest, and this tale by Major Richs lson receives great eulogy from the is a don press. From a cursory glance or depages it seems ripe with incident or and with grace and spirit. It comises 230 pages, 8vo printed in clear ye, without double columns." It is pubsued by DeWitt & Davenport, New Fork, and sold at the bookstores in thi

Miss Fredericka Bremer reached Haand late in January. She dined with Jenny Lind the day after her arrival.

The lecture on Tuesday evening was delivered by Rev. Chas. T. Brooks of Newport, R. I. The fecturer made ... o tormal division of the subject, but what he should say might be found undurone or the other of the following heads: The history, philosophy of language.

That saying of Emerson that words are "tossil poetry"is verified by an exmination of their origin. The most abstract terms are found upon analysis to be figurative. For example, the world "attention" signifies a stretching to, &c. &c. Thus it is that ordinary people talk poetry every day, as Moliere's Frenchmen did prose-without knowing it. When we consider words in the light of their history, the old woman was not so foolish who having borrowed a dictionary of her neighbor, but she returned it said the stories were good, but broke off rather suddenly.

Mr. B. said that our language was to be referred to Indo-Germanic stock which embraces nearly all Europe, and portions of Asia. The English tongue s indeed one of the most hospitable to its co. des of any language. Even our esign issus are legitimate foreign idi-Oma.

The claim of the Hebrew to be conside to the oldest language is disallowed by the ablest and most reliable of modern philologists; and some deductions re to be made fr in the praises bes-....d on it by extravagant eulogists.-... is undoubtedly one of the noblest of and organization and an arms and organization and an arms of the same of the s . of religious emotion; but in capaciy for puriosophical expression and logcal precision it is far surpassed by the Greek.

It is runch to be questioned whether civilized nations have the simplest langauge. There were some tribes of Acan Indiane who have so marked Sees, et adecol incaring as to have is the meditative mood, the reflecerro mood, the reverential thood, etc.

is are but having a notes (not a seport) of this fine, echolarly, and enter taining production. Mr. B. fully sus tained the reputation he long ago won sa successful student in all the elegant a pariments of literature ; and shows that nothing could better fit a lecturer, for the treatment of such a subject, than the intimate knowledge which Mr. B. is and to possess of several modern conditiongues. The house give some re at its delivery, and will be he membered with pleasure, by all who heard it .- N. B. Mercury.

THE BRIEF REMARKER.

The following short apologue of Sadi, an Asiatic sage, is full of valuable instruction .- "I never complained of my wretched forlors condition, but on one occasion, when my feet were naked, and I had not wherewithal to shoe them. Soon after, meeting a man without feet I was thankful for the bounty of Providence to inyself, and with perfect resignation submitted to my want of shoes

The true secret of living happily lies in the philosophy of contentment, which is of infinitely more value than would be the imagined atone of the alchymist, that turns every thing into gold.

It is to be lamented, however, that, is this age of boasted light and improvement, the philosophy of cantentment is very little studied or regarded-From various corrupted cources we have learned, not to be contented, but dispatisfied with the ordinary conditions of lite. And though neither choclers, nor destitute of any escential article of raiment or food, we are ready to consume our hearts with vexation, because we are not seated at the upper and of Fortune's table. The assemblance of happiness is more sought after, than the reality; show, more than substance .-The simple plainness of former days, is despited. Plain apparel, plain fare, and plain houses and furniture, such as our worthy progenitors were quite contented with and very thankful for, our fastideous delicacy regards with scorn ; and we must needs be fine, and fashionable, else pine away our lives in grief and shame.

Nor would it be either so alarming, or so lamentable, were this the folly of only a tew. But the worst of it is, it has spread, like an epidemic, over the whole land, and throughout almost every class of society. Tens, and even hundreds of thousands, embracing alike both sexes. are the miserable victims of a morbid sensability; and equeamishly dash from their lips the cup of ordinary conduct they are presented with, because it is not filled to the brim; or because it is not spiced and sweetened exactly to their taste.

And where lies the remedy? It is not within the art of the aputheeney, nor in the power of any nostrums of purtial and limited effect. No, the prople must be wire for themselves - The great body of the people, coming once more to their sober senses, must agree to return to the plain, frugal, uncostly habits of other times; and must strive, with general accord to bring those long-discarded habits into fashion again, and to render them honourable by the suffrage of public opinion.

As the want of contentment is one of the most grievous of wants that effect human life, it ought to be provided against with the utmost care and particularly in the following ways.

1. In training up children, scarcely any thing is of greater importance than guarding them against the intrusion of too many artificial wants. I say too many, because some wants of this sort do naturally and necessarily grow out of civilization; and it is their excess only, that tends to discontent and wretched ness. Of that excess the danger is great, inasmuch as the effects are als ways deplorable. What multitudes at this very moment are discontented and wretched, who might have enjoyed life comfortably had they been early laught to conform their desires to their conditions, and to act upon the principles of sober and rational economy. Nor is it of small importance in training up children, to accustom them to useful employ. A uscless life, is seldom found to he a contented one. Occupation is so necessary to human quiet, that to bring up children in idleness, is the way to make them a burthen to themselves as well as to the community.

From this two-fold cause, the excess of artificial wants and the neglect of forming habits of useful industry in the early period of life, there has sprung perhaps a full moiety of the discontent that secretly prays upon so many bosoms. In short, important as it is to teach children reading and writing and the use of figures, it is of still greater importance to regulate their tempers, to curb their wayward desires, and to fix them in habits of industry, temperence and frugality, without which the acquisition of learning would be of little benefit to them.

2. The self dicipline of adult age, is an essential pre-requisite towards leading and enjoying a contented life-A well diciplined mind studies to be constant and most commonly is so. It attains its desires, by moderating and limiting them, and thus bringing them within the compass of its means. It accustoms itself to view, without envy, the wealth and grandeur which fails not to its lot, and which reidom renders their possessors the more happy; and to be satisfied with, and thankful for, the mere necessary and common accommodiffers of the jointey of the there it depends much less on our circumstances, whether we shall be happy or miserable in life, than on our tempere, and our view of things. Many enjoy themselves well in narrow circumstances, because they bring their minds to their situations. But when to narrow circumstances are, added large desires and magnificent notions it is then, and then only it is, that unhappiness results from the want of a for-

A Novel Case .- Eight negroes have brought suit in Virginia, for their freedons, claimed under a deed of manumission, executed by their former mas ter twenty years ago in the City of New York. They were all children and grand children of their master, who brought them here and emancipated them, to evade the law of Virginia .--He then took them back with him where they remained unmolested until last summer, when they were accested by the Sheriff, having been claimed as slaves by the next of kin. The Court allowed the Jury to decide the question, whether such a deed of manumission was sufficient, and they rendered a verdict in faver of the negroca.

JENNY LIND.-One of the New Orleans papers contains the following very heautiful letter, which was address ed to Jenny Lind, while she was in Havana, by Dr. Hawke's, of Calvary Church. New York. It is probably the most eloquent tribute to her genius that the generous Swede has ever received :--

New York, Jan. 2, 1851.

DEAR AND GOOD LADY .- I hope you have not forgot a clergyman who was introduced to you by Mr. Cromwell, and who now writes you this note. You have been exposed to great danger at sea, and I can but express my thankfulness to God for your preservation.

Gifted with extraordinary powers as you are, there is something about you more beautiful to me than even your acknowledged talent; it is in the generous sensibility of heart which prompts you, with such unequalled disinterestness and devotion to consecrate God's gifts to the benefit of your fellow creatures. In respecting and loving you, the world is but rendering to purity of heart and goodness the homage extorted from even its selfish wickedness. I thank God, therefore, for your preservation, for I would not have the world less your example. You will not, I am sure, be displeased with an old clergyman for saying, cherish as you have done the unaffected humility which adds fresh lustre to your extraordinary endowments. To be good is better than to be great. Then, when at last death, by taking you, shall prove that he is not blind only, but deafjalso, you will, I trust and believe, be transferred to a world where you may learn new songs from hely angels.

That God may bless and keep you rafely, dear and good lady, is the prayer of your friend. FRANCIS L. HAWKS. Mademoizelle Jenny Lind.

THE GLASS PALACE.—The fee now charged for admission to the mammoth edifice intended for the World's Fair, is ten shillings, (about $2,50) and when finished it will be raised to a gainea, but reduced as the period of the Fair advances. Mr. Fox, in reply to a late question as to the effect of wind on the "Crystal Palace," said, "the greatest force of wind ever known is computed at 92 lbs, to the superficial foot. Taking 23 lbs. as the force, and assuming that they could have a gust of wind that would strike the whole side of the building, from top to bottom, at the came moment, the total force which could be brought against it would be from 1400 to 1500 tons. Now, they had got a power to resist it of 6300 i

CONGRESS.

Washington, Tuesday, Feb 13: Senare .- Numerous petitions and reorts on private cases were presented. Mr. Benton gave notice that he would introduce again the hill to pay Missouri her two per cent. fund.

Mr. Rusk introduced a joint resolution for ice boats on the Potomac, to carry the mail during the winter.

Mr. Hale's resolution of inquiry into the expediency of placing Naval Chapfains on the same footing, as to compensation, as Surgeons, was adopted.

The Joint Resolution authorizing the President to confer the rank of Lieutenant General by Brevet, was passed.-Yeas 31, nays 16.

Hoese,-Mr. Bayly, from the Committee on Ways and Means reported a bill making appropriations for the Army for the year ending June 1852. Referred to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

The House resumed the consideration of the resolution reported yesterday for the relief of Thomas Ritchie for losses sustained on account of executing the Congressional Printing.

Mr. Marshall contended that the contract was taken without an intention of performing it, and replied to the renarks delivered yesterday by Mr. More-

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

'ANCARY SESSION-AT PROVIDENCE. THURSDAY MOREING, Feb. 13.

Senate.-Mr. Branch reported a bill hy instruction from the Judiciary Committee, in amendment of an act to establish the limits of the several jail yards. Read, rules suspended, and after discussion laid upon the table.

House.—The resolution in relation to the Crary Balances, under consideration in the forenood, was laid on the table, on motion of Air. Bosworth.

Mr. Updike offered a resolution that when the House adjourns on Saturday next, it adjourn sine die.

Mr. Updike said the Supreme Court would meet next week in South Kingatown, and would call away many of the members of the Assembly. A resolution adjourning the Court to the following week, had passed the House, but had been defeated in the Senate, and he knew of no way by which our "independent" Supreme Court could be accommodated, but by an adjournment of the Assembly. The Court did not want its session postponed, and the Senate had shown an inclination to accommodate the judges, at whatever cost of convenience to the Assembly. If the Assembly must knock under, he wanted to know it now, and offered the resolution to ascertain the sense of the House on a matter of much interest to many menibers of this and the other branch.

After half an hour of very pleasant talk the resolution was laid on the table. Act in relation to Pilotage-appointing a Branch Pilot-was reported by Mr. Hazard, and taken up on motion of Mr. Gavitt.

After some remraks by Mesers. Boxworth, E. H. Hazard, Gavitt, F. Brown, and Turner, the Act was permitted to lie on the table.

Act adjourning the February term of the Supreme Court, for Washington county, to Tuesday, the 25th of the present month, was offered by Mr. Davis. (The bill passed yesterday and defeated in the Senate, was the same as the present, except that it adjourned the Court to meet on the 24th.)

Some debate followed the introduction of the bill.

Mr. E. Hazard thought the wishes of the Court ought to be consulted.

Mr. P. Spencer thought so too, and intimated that the Court would not like an adjournment.

Mr. Updike and Mr. Ames thought the business of the Assembly of as much importance as that of the Court. Several members of both Houses of the Assembly had business before the Court, and it was but an act of justice to permit them to attend to it without quitting their reats before an adjournment.

Mr. F. Brown said the Assembly could get along very well, and let these lawyers, who had business before the Court, go off. Even the gentleman from South Kingstown (Mr. Updike) could be spared, as the country party was strong enough without him.

Mr. Gavitt said nearly one half the members from Washington county must attend the Court, and he hoped they would be accommodated by the passage of the act.

Mr. Brown said he was afraid these members had been doing something bad, and that if we permitted them to go before the Court, we should never see them again, except through iron grates.

After some further remarks, the rule was suspended, and the act was read a recond time and passed.

The House then adjourned.

P. TOWNSEND'S EXRACT OF SARSAPARILLA Is Cutaneous Diseases, is well worthy its notice of these afflicted with such disagreeable cruptions:

New York, August 5, 1850.

Dr. S. P. Townsens—Dear dir: I am most happy is acknowledge that, after suffring for menty ainer years with the Sail Rheum in a very aggravated form, and being shandoned as incurable by several form, and being shandoned as incurable by several for the first payritariane, I was fasily perrended to try your fur-famed Sarsaparille. The effects were soon perceptible, and when I had used ten bottles, for my greet amprise I found myself not only cured of that most disagreeths and frintiating disease, but my general health was so much improved that it my general health was so much improved that it astonished my family and friends. Since then I have advised others to make use of your Medicine, and have noticed its wooderful effects curing in numer-ous diseases, not altogether caused by a bal state of the blood.

Yours most respectfully

We believe Dr. C. M. Jackson's ' Hoofland's "We believe Dr. C. M. Jackson's 'Hoofland's German Hitters,' to be a most excellent medicine, and one that should be highly popular in these days of Temperance—for they are altogether Vegetable in their composition, without one drop of Alcoholic Spirits in them. This medicine is immocent, but strengthening in its effects, and richly deserving of an unbounded popularity, which, when it becomes known, it will, no doubt, fully erjoy."

ing of an unbounded popularity, which, when it becomes known, it will, no doubt, fully enjoy," Judge M. M. Noah said, in his "Weckly Messonger," January 6, 1850,
"Dr. Honfland's German Bitters.—Here is a preparation which the leading presses in the Union appear to be unanimous in recommending, and the reason is obvious. It is made after a prescription furnished by one of the most cekbrated physicians of modern times—the late Dr. Christopher Wilhelm Hoolkard, professor to the University of Jerappitate physician to the king of Pruesia, and one of the greatest medical writers Germany has ever produced. He was emplantically the enemy of Anahazy, and therefore a medicine of which he was the inventor and emforter may be confidently relied on. He specially recommended it in Liver Combinat, Dyspepsia, Debility, Vertigo, Acidity of the Stomach, Constigation, and aff complaints virsing from a disordered condition of the stemach, the liver and the difference confidence, and several of the editors speak of its effects from their own individual experience. Under these chromostanees, we feel warranted, not only in calling the attention of our traders to the present proprietor's (Cr. C. M. Jackson's) preparation, but a recommending the atticle to all affiliered."
